SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the “Student Borrower Credit Improvement Act”.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) The October 2014 report of the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection titled “Annual Report of the CFPB Student Loan Ombudsman” noted many private education loan borrowers, who sought to negotiate a modified repayment plan when they were experiencing a period of financial distress, were unable to get assistance from their loan holders, which often resulting in them defaulting on their loans. This pattern resembles the difficulty that a significant number of mortgage loan borrowers experienced when they sought to take responsible steps to work with their mortgage loan servicer to avoid foreclosure during the Great Recession.

(2) Although private student loan holders may allow a borrower to postpone payments while enrolled in school full-time, many limit this option to a certain time period, usually 48 to 66 months. This limited time period may not be sufficient for those who need additional time to obtain their degree or who want to continue their education by pursuing a graduate or professional degree. The Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection found that borrowers who were unable to make payments often defaulted or had their accounts sent to collections before they were even able to graduate.

SEC. 3. REMOVAL OF ADVERSE INFORMATION FOR CERTAIN PRIVATE EDUCATION LOAN BORROWERS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681 et seq.) is amended by inserting after section 605B the following new section:

“§ 605C. Credit rehabilitation for distressed private education loan borrowers.

“(a) IN GENERAL.—A consumer reporting agency may not furnish any consumer report containing any adverse item of information relating to a delinquent or defaulted private education loan of a borrower if the borrower has rehabilitated the borrower’s credit with respect to such loan by making 9 on-time monthly payments (in accordance with the terms and conditions of the borrower’s original loan agreement or any other repayment agreement that antedates the original agreement) during a period of 10 consecutive months on such loan after the date on which the delinquency or default occurred.

“(b) INTERRUPTION OF 10-MONTH PERIOD FOR CERTAIN CONSUMERS.—

“(1) PERMISSIBLE INTERRUPTION OF THE 10-MONTH PERIOD.—A borrower may stop making consecutive monthly payments and be granted a grace period after which the 10-month period described in subsection (a) shall resume. Such grace period shall be provided under the following circumstances:

“(A) With respect to a borrower who is a member of the Armed Forces entitled to incentive pay for the performance of hazardous duty under section 301 of title 37, United States Code, hazardous duty pay under section 351 of such title, or other assignment or special duty pay under section 352 of such title, the grace period shall begin on the date on which the borrower begins such assignment or duty and end on the date that is 6 months after the completion of such assignment or duty.

“(B) With respect to a borrower who resides in an area affected by a major disaster or emergency declared under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, the grace period shall begin on the date on which the major disaster or emergency was declared and end on the date that is 3 months after such date.

“(2) OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES.—

“(A) IN GENERAL.—The Bureau may allow a borrower demonstrating hardship to stop making consecutive monthly payments and be granted a grace period after which the 10-month period described in subsection (a) shall resume.

“(B) BORROWER DEMONSTRATING HARDSHIP DEFINED.—In this paragraph, the term ‘borrower demonstrating hardship’ means a borrower or a class of borrowers who, as determined by the Bureau, is facing or has experienced unusual extenuating life circumstances or events that result in severe financial or personal barriers such that the borrower or class of borrowers does not have the capacity to comply with the requirements of subsection (a).

“(c) PROCEDURES.—The Bureau shall establish procedures to implement the credit rehabilitation described in this section, including—

“(1) the manner, content, and form for requesting credit rehabilitation;

“(2) the method for validating that the borrower is satisfying the requirements of subsection (a);

“(3) the manner, content, and form for notifying the private educational loan holder of—

“(A) the borrower’s participation in credit rehabilitation under subsection (a);

“(B) the requirements described in subsection (d); and

“(C) the restrictions described in subsection (f);

“(4) the manner, content, and form for notifying a consumer reporting agency of—

“(A) the borrower’s participation in credit rehabilitation under subsection (a); and

“(B) the requirements described in subsection (d);

“(5) the method for verifying whether a borrower qualifies for the grace period described in subsection (b);

“(6) the manner, content, and form of notifying a consumer reporting agency and private educational loan holder that a borrower was granted a grace period.

“(d) STANDARDIZED REPORTING CODES.—A consumer reporting agency shall develop standardized reporting codes for use by any private educational loan holder to identify and report a borrower’s status of making and completing 9 on-time monthly payments during a period of 10 consecutive months on a delinquent or defaulted private education loan, including codes specifying the grace period described in subsection (b) and any agreement to modify monthly payments. Such codes shall not appear on any report provided to a third party, and shall be removed from the consumer’s credit report upon the consumer’s completion of the rehabilitation period under this section.

“(e) ELIMINATION OF BARRIERS TO CREDIT REHABILITATION.—A consumer report in which a private educational loan holder furnishes the standardized reporting codes described in subsection (d) to a consumer reporting agency, or in which a consumer reporting agency includes such codes, shall be deemed to comply with the requirements for accuracy and completeness under sections 623(a)(1) and 630.

“(f) PROHIBITION ON CIVIL ACTIONS FOR CONSUMERS PURSUING REHABILITATION.—A private educational loan holder may not commence or proceed with any civil action against a borrower with respect to a delinquent or defaulted loan during the period of rehabilitation if the private educational loan holder has been notified, in accordance with the procedures established by the Bureau pursuant to subsection (c)— or

“(1) of such borrower’s intent to participate in rehabilitation;

“(2) that such borrower has satisfied the requirements under subsection (a);

“(3) that such borrower was granted a grace period.

“(g) IMPACT ON STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS FOR PRIOR DEBT.—Payments by a borrower on a private education loan that are made during and after a period of rehabilitation under this section shall have no effect on the statute of limitations with respect to payments that were due on such private education loan before the beginning of the period of rehabilitation.

“(h) PAYMENT PLANS.—If a private educational loan holder enters into a payment plan with a borrower on a private education loan during a period of rehabilitation, such payment plan shall be reasonable and affordable, as determined by the Bureau.

“(i) RULES OF CONSTRUCTION.—

“(1) APPLICATION TO SUBSEQUENT DEFAULT OR DELINQUENCY.—A borrower who satisfies the requirements under subsection (a) shall be eligible for additional credit rehabilitation described in subsection (a) with respect to any subsequent default or delinquency of the borrower on the rehabilitated private education loan.

“(2) INTERRUPTION OF CONSECUTIVE PAYMENT PERIOD REQUIREMENT.—The grace period described in subsection (b)(1)(A) shall not apply if any regulation promulgated under section 987 of title 10, United States Code (commonly known as the Military Lending Act), or the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act (50 U.S.C. App. 501 et seq.) allows for a grace period or other interruption of the 10-month period described in subsection (a) and such grace period or other interruption is longer than the period described in subsection (b)(1)(A) or otherwise provides greater protection or benefit to the borrower who is a member of the Armed Forces.”

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section 623(a)(1) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681s-2(a)(1)) is amended by striking subparagraph (E).

(c) TABLE OF CONTENTS AMENDMENT.—The table of contents of the Fair Credit Reporting Act is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 605B the following new item:

“605C. Credit rehabilitation for distressed private education loan borrowers.”.

SEC. 4. PRIVATE EDUCATION LOAN DEFINITIONS.

Section 603 of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(bb) PRIVATE EDUCATION LOAN DEFINITIONS.—The terms ‘private education loan’ and ‘private educational lender’ have the meanings given such terms, respectively, in section 140(a) of the Truth in Lending Act.”.

SEC. 5. RULEMAKING.

Except as otherwise provided, the Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection shall, not later than the end of the 2-year period beginning on the date of the enactment of this Act, issue final rules to implement the amendments made by this Act.

PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

On July 5, 2019, Representative Ayanna Pressley introduced H.R. 3621, the “Student Borrower Credit Improvement Act,” which removes adverse credit file information relating to defaulted or delinquent private education loans for borrowers who demonstrate a history of timely loan repayments for these loans. The credit reporting agencies (CRAs) would be required to remove delinquent or defaulted private education loan information from consumer reports if a borrower makes nine out of ten consecutive monthly payments. In addition, the bill protects student loan borrowers by ensuring that repayment plans be affordable and reasonable, and by protecting the statute of limitations on payments even when payments are made by a borrower. The bill also permits reasonable interruptions in the consecutive repayment periods for those facing unique and extenuating life events, such as service members who are receiving imminent danger or other special pay duty when deployed, and residents in Federally-declared natural disaster areas. Furthermore, the bill would address concerns raised during the debate on S. 2155 from the 115th Congress, which included a provision on rehabilitating private student loans. Various stakeholders raised concerns that the provision would permit abusive behavior by student loan creditors and debt collectors.¹

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Our nation’s credit reporting system is broken yet has an impact on almost every American. Credit scores and credit reports are increasingly relied upon by creditors, employers, insurers, and even law enforcement. Yet it has been more than 15 years since Congress enacted comprehensive reform of the consumer reporting system,² and there have been numerous shortcomings with the current system identified during that time that need to be addressed. For example, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) study found in 2012 that one out of every five consumers have a verified error on their consumer reports and 5 percent had errors serious enough to result in them being denied credit or paying more for mortgages, auto loans, insurance policies, and other financial obligations.³ An analysis of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau's (CFPB) consumer complaint database revealed that in 2018, credit reports were the most complained about financial product, and the three major credit bureaus—Equifax, Experian and TransUnion—were the most-complained about financial companies.⁴ It is critical that Congress act swiftly to address these critical flaws and modernize the Fair Credit Reporting Act to ensure the credit reporting system works better for all Americans.

Given increasing tuition costs, those who need loans to pay for higher education are increasingly incurring larger student loan debts. However, unlike Federal student loans, private education lenders do not have to offer borrowers flexible repayment options, which has resulted in high defaults and delinquencies on these types of loans that, in turn, impair many young consumers' credit standing.⁵

According to the CFPB, student loan debt exceeds $1.5 trillion, which creates a drag on our country's economy by hindering borrowers' ability to qualify for mortgage and auto loans, pursue entrepreneurial ventures, build wealth, save for retirement, and pursue certain careers, including civic-minded jobs.⁶ Federal student loan borrowers have some repayment options that are not required to be provided to private education loan borrowers.⁷ Although some private education loan holders may allow student borrowers to postpone payments while they are enrolled in school full-time, this period is usually capped at 48 or 66 months.⁸ This can create a financial paradox for continuing education students, who may need additional time to finish an undergraduate degree, and for those who want to obtain a graduate degree but cannot afford to make loan payments while they are still in school. As such, even before some students graduate, their reports may contain negative information related to their private education loans.⁹

Section 3. Removes adverse information for certain defaulted or delinquent private education loan borrowers who demonstrate a history of loan repayment

This section creates a new section, “605C” of the Fair Credit Reporting Act.

The new section 605C prevents consumer reporting agencies from furnishing any consumer reports containing any adverse information related to a consumer’s delinquent or defaulted private education loan, if the borrower has made nine on-time consecutive monthly payments. This section also creates a provision of reasonable interruptions in the consecutive repayment period permitting borrowers to miss payments when facing unique and extenuating life events, such as service members who are receiving imminent danger or other special pay duty when deployed, and residents in Federally-declared natural disaster areas.

Section 4. Private education loan definitions

This section amends section 603 of the Fair Credit Reporting Act by defining “private student loan” and “private educational lender”.

Section 5. General Bureau Rulemaking

This section directs the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau to issue final rules implementing this Act within two years of the enactment of H.R. 3621.

HEARINGS

For the purposes of section 103(i) of H. Res. 6 for the 116th Congress—

(1) The Committee on Financial Services held a hearing, entitled “Who’s Keeping Score? Holding Credit Bureaus Accountable and Repairing a Broken System” to consider the “Comprehensive Consumer Credit Reporting Reform Act of 2019” (Title III of the discussion draft is substantially similar to H.R. 3621) on February 26, 2019. The two-panel hearing consisted of first the three CEOs of the three largest Credit Reporting Agencies: Equifax, TransUnion, and Experian. Witnesses on the second panel included representatives from the National Fair Housing Alliance, the National Consumer Law Center, UnidosUS, U.S. Public Interest Research Group (PIRG), and a Paul Hastings partner and attorney. The hearing allowed Members of the Financial Services Committee to hear from witnesses about the continuing challenges modernizing the Fair Credit Reporting Act to better protect consumers and their data, as well as other legislation to help overcome those challenges.

(2) In addition, during the 115th Congress, the Financial Services Committee held a two-part hearing on the Equifax data breach and related credit reporting and consumer data protection issues. The first part of the hearing entitled “Examining the Equifax Data Breach” took place on October 5, 2017 and featured the former Chairman and CEO to Equifax. The Committee also held a Minority Day hearing, which was a continuation of the hearing entitled, “Examining the Equifax Data Breach” and took place on October 25, 2017. Witnesses included representatives from the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, the National Consumer Law Center,

Georgetown University Law Center, and the Office of the New York State Attorney General.

COMMITTEE CONSIDERATION

The Committee on Financial Services met in open session on July 16, 2019, and ordered H.R. 3621 to be reported favorably to the House with an amendment in the nature of a substitute by a vote of 32 yeas and 26 nays, a quorum being present.

H.R. 3621, Student Borrower Credit Improvement Act
As ordered reported by the House Committee on Financial Services on July 16, 2019
By Fiscal Year, Millions of Dollars	2020	2020-2024	2020-2029
Direct Spending (Outlays)	2	3	3

Increases on-budget deficits in any of the four consecutive 10-year periods beginning in 2030?	No	Contains intergovernmental mandate?	No
		Contains private-sector mandate?	Yes, Cannot Determine Costs

H.R. 3621 would require the Consumer Financial Protection Agency (CFPB) to establish procedures by which borrowers could rehabilitate their credit if they are delinquent or have defaulted on a private-sector education loan. Under the bill, if a borrower makes at least 9 of 10 consecutive monthly payments on time, after the date of the delinquency or default, consumer reporting agencies (CRAs) could not include adverse information related to that delinquency or default in a consumer report. Payments during the 10-month period could be interrupted and resumed without consequences for members of the U.S. Armed Forces on assignment, people residing in areas affected by disaster, and people demonstrating hardship. Finally, H.R. 3621 would require the CFPB to issue rules that regulate payment plans between private education lenders and borrowers during credit rehabilitation periods.

Using information from the CFPB, CBO expects that issuing rules and establishing procedures under the bill would require the work of 13 agency employees for one year at an average cost of $200,000 each. On that basis, CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 3621 would increase direct spending by $3 million over the 2020–2021 period. (The CFPB has permanent authority, not subject to annual appropriation, to spend amounts transferred from the Federal Reserve.)

H.R. 3621 would impose private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act (UMRA). CBO cannot determine whether the aggregate cost of those mandates would exceed the private-sector threshold established in UMRA ($164 million in 2019, adjusted annually for inflation).

The bill would require CRAs to remove delinquency or default information related to private education loans from credit reports of borrowers who have completed the specified credit rehabilitation process. H.R. 3621 also would require CRAs to develop a standard reporting code for private lenders to identify borrowers pursuing such credit rehabilitation. Using information from industry sources, CBO estimates the cost of complying with those requirements would be small.

H.R. 3621 would impose an additional mandate by removing a private right of action by limiting the right of lenders of private education loans to file civil lawsuits against certain borrowers. The cost of the mandate would be the forgone net value of awards and settlements that would have been granted for such claims in the absence of the bill. Because H.R. 3621 allows CFPB to exempt borrowers from lawsuits on an individual basis, CBO has no basis on which to estimate the number of possible lawsuits precluded by the bill. Nor can we predict the amount of potential forgone settlements. Therefore, CBO cannot estimate the cost of the mandate.

The bill contains no intergovernmental mandates as defined in UMRA.

The CBO staff contacts for this estimate are David Hughes (for federal costs) and Rachel Austin (for mandates). The estimate was reviewed by H. Samuel Papenfuss, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

COMMITTEE COST ESTIMATE

Clause 3(d)(1) of Rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison of the costs that would be incurred in carrying out H.R. 3621. However, clause 3(d)(2)(B) of that rule provides that this requirement does not apply when the committee has included in its report a timely submitted cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act.

UNFUNDED MANDATE STATEMENT

Pursuant to Section 423 of the Congressional Budget and Impoundment Control Act (as amended by Section 101(a)(2) of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act, Pub. L. 104-4), the Committee adopts as its own the estimate of federal mandates regarding H.R. 3621, as amended, prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE

No advisory committees within the meaning of section 5(b) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act were created by this legislation.

COMMITTEE CORRESPONDENCE

APPLICATION OF LAW TO THE LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

H.R. 3621 does not apply to terms and conditions of employment or to access to public services or accommodations within the legislative branch.

EARMARK STATEMENT

In accordance with clause 9 of rule XXI of the Rules of the House of Representatives, H.R. does not contain any congressional earmarks, limited tax benefits, or limited tariff benefits as described in clauses 9(e), 9(f), and 9(g) of rule XXI.

DUPLICATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS

Pursuant to clause 3(c)(5) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee states that no provision of H.R.

3621 establishes or reauthorizes a program of the Federal Government known to be duplicative of another federal program, a program that was included in any report from the Government Accountability Office to Congress pursuant to section 21 of Public Law 111-139, or a program related to a program identified in the most recent Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW MADE BY THE BILL AS REPORTED

In compliance with clause 3(e) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, changes in existing law made by the bill, H.R. 3621, as reported, are shown as follows:

MINORITY VIEWS

Committee Republicans believe that H.R. 3621, the Student Borrower Credit Improvement Act of 2019, is yet another bill that fails to address the underlying issues related to the federal student loan debt crisis, which was further exacerbated by the Democrats' goal of nationalizing student lending in 2010. Instead of addressing the underlying issues related to student loan debt, proponents of H.R. 3621 seek to address problems in the private student loan market despite the fact that the private market is made up of less than ten percent of student loan borrowers. Moreover, approximately 98 percent of student loans are repaid in the private market.

H.R. 3621, as amended, prevents credit reporting agencies from incorporating into consumer reports any adverse information relating to a delinquent or defaulted private education loan if the consumer has made nine on time monthly payments in a consecutive ten-month period. The legislation also prohibits credit reporting agencies from taking civil action against a consumer pursuing rehabilitation.

In 2010, the Democrats nationalized student lending through the reconciliation process related to Obamacare. Rather than searching for a solution to rising college costs and financial illiteracy, Democrats further exacerbated the student loan crisis by saddling the federal government and an entire generation with a $1.5 trillion debt load. Unlike the high repayment rate with respect to private loans, the default rate for the Department of Education's Direct Loan program is "16.8 percent by recipient count and 13.6 percent by total amount."¹

The Higher Education Act currently provides rehabilitation opportunities for federal loan holders who have defaulted on student loans. H.R. 3621 seeks to expand rehabilitation opportunities with respect to private loans not only for those who defaulted but for those who are delinquent in repayment. While expanding the opportunities to a new class of borrowers, H.R. 3621 fails to define 'delinquent.' The inclusion of this vague language will impact a lender's ability to determine creditworthiness or a borrower's ability to repay.

Committee Republicans view this legislation as a solution in search of a problem and an attempt by Democrats to appear as if they are helping students impacted by the student loan debt. Instead, H.R. 3621 offers little more than window dressing given the small number of borrowers covered by the protections set out in the bill. During the markup of H.R. 3621, Congressman Hill offered an amendment to expand the bill to cover all education loans, not just those made by financial institutions. The amendment was ruled non-germane by the Chairwoman.

Further, Committee Republicans recognize the importance of financial literacy training and the impact it can have on a consumer's financial health. Congressman Gooden offered an amendment during the markup that would require a delinquent student loan borrower to complete financial literacy training in addition to the rehabilitation requirements of this legislation. This common-sense amendment is in line with the recent House-passed legislation that would allow the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to provide a discount on Federal Housing Authority single-family mortgage insurance premiums for first-time homebuyers who complete a housing counseling program. Financial literacy programs are effective tools and have proven to reduce mortgage delinquency rates, and this training would undoubtedly benefit all consumers, particularly those that have found themselves in circumstances of delinquency or default. Unfortunately, Congressman Gooden's amendment was rejected by a party line vote of 25-33.

Committee Republicans remain concerned by the student loan debt crisis facing millions of Americans and believe a comprehensive and thoughtfully-crafted bill should be pursued by the committees of jurisdiction. However, legislation that prevents the disclosure of adverse information relating to a delinquent or defaulted student loan fails to address the underlying issues and is a solution in search of a problem. This undermines the underwriting that is central to the credit reporting system and could ultimately lead to increased costs of credit for millions of American borrowers.
